ST. MARY'S CATHEDRAL TO BE DEDICATED THIS MORNING

Continued from Page One.

The glass windows, representing the mysteries of the Rosary, are works of art. Beneath the large window, an east window, is the best of its kind made, a gift to the cathedral by Miss Mary of Ely, Nev., who recently visited San Francisco.

Big Contributors.

At the time of the beginning of the cathedral, the wealthy Salt Lake residents, regardless of their religious beliefs, contributed freely to defraying the cost of the structure. Among these people were the late Mrs. Mary Judge and Mrs. Margaret, who gave $10,000 each; Thomas Kearns, J. J. Daly, Ivers, David Keith, W. S. McSamuel, Newhouse, O. J. Salis, Joseph Geoghegan, John McSorley, Kinney, Mrs. Kinney, all contributed substantial sums. There were hundreds of less contributors. Mrs. Judge also contributed two large transept windows in memory of her husband, and Miss O'Meara contributed the altar screen in memory of her father, mother and sister. The office generally is the finest ecclesiastical building between the Missouri river and the Pacific coast.

The gathering of church dignitaries, by the illustrious cardinal, who assembled in Salt Lake City to part in today's service of dedication is a remarkable one. For this section of country it is unprecedented, and in fact, seldom, upon any occasion, are the leaders of the church gathered together. The Catholic people of Salt Lake City have reason to be proud of the respect shown them by their reverend bishop by members of the clergy of national reputation, and the people generally of the city and state, who are to take part in the service. The presence here is of no mean importance. The host of former Senator Thomas Kearns has done much towards making the visit of such eminent

Services of Dedication. The church is in readiness for the services of dedication, which are the most elaborate and impressive of any in the Catholic church. The dedication service, even though they were most part held at high prices, beyond the supply. All have subscribed for, and admission will be ticket only. The seats are all reserved for the occasion.

A fact not generally understood is that the cardinal takes no essential part in the dedication services. His presence at the cathedral, however, is the highest honor that can be paid the church and its congregation. The cardinal occupies the bishop's throne when present, this being the only occasion upon which the bishop is deposed from his throne.

Dedication services proper at the cathedral will take place at 10 o'clock this morning, and Right Rev. Bishop O'Connell, coadjutor of San Francisco, representing Bishop Riordan of San Francisco, will officiate. The ceremony consists of the blessing of the edifice and the dedication of it to the worship of the Almighty. Bishop O'Connell will be assisted by Rev. George T. McCarthy, master of ceremonies, and by the choir and clergy, who chant the service during the service. At half past 10 o'clock, the 200 girls and 100 boys who are to take part in the procession, will get in line on Second East and march to St. Mary's singing "Te Deum." The girls will wear white and will wear veils.

Little ones will be led in their procession by the band, which will play "Fidelis," by Novello. At the altar, by special request of Bishop O'Connell, the band will play "Home, Sweet Home."

Pontifical High Mass. Services on the exterior of the cathedral will last a little less than an hour, and at 11 o'clock the procession of cross bearers, altar boys, and the cardinal will move from the residence to the cathedral. The pontifical high mass will be celebrated in the cathedral. This procession is formed with the cardinal in the lead. He is followed by the altar boys, the inferior clergy, the deacons, the bishops, and finally Bishop Scannell, who officiate at the mass. It is the intention to have this procession pass directly to the cathedral through the main entrance of the church, so that it will not be necessary for those passing to go out on the street.

Others, the following church dignitaries: His eminence, Cardinal James Gibbons of Baltimore, Md.; Most Rev. Glorieux of St. Louis, Mo.; Rev. Scannell of Omaha, Neb.; Rt. Rev. J. J. Keane of Cheyenne, Wyo.; A. J. Glorieux of Boise, Ida.; J. T. Carroll of Helena, Mont.; Rev. Harnett, V. G., of Los Angeles, Cal.; Rev. George T. McCarthy of Butte, Mont.; Rev. William O'Ryan of Denver, Colo.; Rev. H. R. McCabe of Idaho Springs, Colo.; Rev. J. C. McGovern of Emmetsburg, Md.; Rev. Joseph Barron of St. Mary's, Los Angeles, Cal.; Rev. M. Sheehan of Ely, Nev.; Rev. James Butler of Tonopah, Nev.; Rev. P. M. Cushman of Ogden, Rev. John Ryan of Ogden and the following members of the local clergy: Bishop L. Scannell, Dean Harris, Rev. Kiely, Rev. Timothy Brennan, Rev. A. J. Ryan, Rev. W. K. Ryan, William Curran, J. Collins and J. J. Guinan.

Assistants at Mass.

At the solemn high mass at which Bishop Scannell will officiate, he will be assisted by Very Rev. Dean Harris, arch-priest, Rev. Kiely, deacon, and Rev. Guinan, sub-deacon. After the gospel at this mass, the dedication sermon will be delivered by Archbishop Glorieux of St. Louis, one of the most eloquent orators this country has ever produced. At the conclusion of the mass, Cardinal James Gibbons will pronounce the blessing, and it is quite likely that he also will make a few impromptu remarks.

In the evening at 6:30 o'clock sharp solemn vespers will be observed, the vespers to be given out by Rt. Rev. D. J. O'Connell and the sermon to be preached by Rt. Rev. J. J. Keane of Cheyenne.

The musical programme at both the high mass in the morning and the vespers services in the evening will be most elaborate. Miss Nora Gleason has been working on this feature of the services for many weeks and the final rehearsals have demonstrated that her careful and conscientious training of the voices which are to take part has had telling and artistic effect. The music will be grand.

A choir of seventy voices, the cream of Salt Lake's varied talent, will furnish the choruses. Prof. J. J. McClellan will be at the organ; Mrs. Edward Fitzpatrick at the harp; Edward Fitzpatrick, violin soloist; and the Salt Lake

HIS EMINENCE CARDINAL JAMES GIBBONS.

CARDINAL GIVES RECEPTION AT RESIDENCE OF BISHOP

Hundreds of people greeted his eminence, Cardinal Gibbons, at the informal public reception given by him at the residence of Bishop Scannell Saturday afternoon. At 4:30 o'clock the cardinal was taken to the Bishop Scannell home from his apartments at the residence of former Senator Kearns and there already was a large crowd there awaiting his arrival, young and old, Catholic and Protestant, all desirous of looking into the kindly eyes of the cardinal and of shaking his hand. During the afternoon, the National Association of Civil War Musicians visited the residence and serenaded Cardinal Gibbons, Bishop Scannell, Senator Kearns and other prominent people at the reception. Through Prof. McClellan, chairman of the G. A. R. music committee, the old veterans' services were presented by Senator Kearns with several boxes of very fine cigars. The "smokes" were distributed to the soldier boys while they were on their "Seeing Salt Lake" trip during the afternoon.
